GHOST HUNTERS

Jon Solmundson takes a trip with a pair of paranormal experts to the historic settlement of Greenough to see what goes bump in the night Wayne Giles and Mat Wilson, of Geraldton Paranormal, have been hunting ghosts for years. When I first spoke to them about spotting spooks out by Greenough Historical Settlement, south of Geraldton, I was sceptical, but intrigued.

So on a dark summer night we drove out to the old buildings, and they took me through a paranormal investigation from start to finish.

RESEARCH

Mat explains the point of ghost hunting for them is to gain some insight into the afterlife, and the spirits are their ticket to the answers.
